Subject: Cooling Station Available at Community and Cultural Center

RESIDENTS CAN COOL OFF AT COMMUNITY AND CULTURAL CENTER

As the hot weather continues, the City realizes that many residents may be distressed by the heat and will benefit from an air conditioned environment. With this in mind, City Manager Ed Tewes has ordered the establishment of a temporary “Cooling Station” at the Community and Cultural Center. “We encourage all residents who need a break from the heat to take advantage of the Cooling Station at the Community and Cultural Center,” remarked Tewes.

Morgan Hill Cooling Station Key Facts

Dates Open	Monday, July 24, 2006 – Thursday, July 27, 2006

Medical personnel will not be available at the Center. If someone is in need of medical attention, they should call their physician or, in case of emergency, dial 911. High heat, particularly sustained heat like the region is experiencing, presents serious health risks to sensitive populations. The City encourages residents to check the well-being of neighbors and family members who may be particularly susceptible to the heat. Regardless of age, all residents should be sure to drink plenty of fluids and avoid prolonged exposure to the sun.
